ROUNDTABLE INVITATION

“From human to animal and planetary health: reaffirming the European Commitment!”

Dear Members of the European Parliament,
Dear High officials and friends of One Europe for Global Health,

As we embark on the new legislature, and as the new College of Commissioners engage in the hearings with the elected representatives, time has come yet again to recognise that Human, Animal and Planetary health are interlinked. Safeguarding our future depends on aligning policies to address and respond to risks across all policy domains.

Indeed, quality scientific research has confirmed the robust interdependence across the three foci. The European Commission may wish to confer a crosscutting responsibility on One Sustainable Health to a Vice President with a mandate to ensure coherence and consistency across key policy areas that affect Human, Animal and Environmental health.

The One Europe for Global Health (OEGH) Coalition is inviting you to an informal, substantive brainstorming on the critical risks that are facing Europeans in these areas and on how those risks can be addressed and mitigated in the next 5 years by appropriate action and effective organisation within the European Institutions and beyond. We therefore invite you to participate in a roundtable discussion:

- Wednesday October 2, 2024, from 10:00 till 14:30
- Venue : Egmont Institute Rue des Petits Carmes 24A - 1000 Brussels

We look forward to your participation and active interventions in the debate, which will be conducted under Chatham House rules.

You will find in the enclosed, the previous material circulated, well as a list of invitees and designated high level speakers.

You are kindly requested to confirm your presence or that of your representative via this link.
